

Jacob Dylan Adamo
December 17, 1981 – April 19, 2018

Jacob Dylan Adamo was born on December 17, 1981 to Thea Marie Kurpjuweit and Paul Porcella at Anaheim General Hospital in California. He lived his first three years in California, until his mother married Christopher Adamo who moved the family to Berthoud, Colorado and a few years later to Wheatland, Wyoming where he adopted Jacob in 1988.

Jacob accepted Jesus Christ as his Savior as a young child. He grew up in Wheatland living there until he left to college at Liberty University in Lynchburg, Virginia, in August of 2000. There he met Sarah Morin whom he married in April of 2003. They lived initially in Falmouth, Massachusetts relocating to Virginia and North Carolina, and eventually to Wheatland, Wyoming where they lived until his passing April 19, 2018.

During their fifteen years of marriage, Jacob and Sarah had seven children and started several businesses. Jacob authored two books on personality colors, Full Spectrum Success and Full Spectrum Freedom, he developed course studies on them, and was invited to several forums to speak on them. His works can be found at www.JacobAdamo.com.

Jacob was admitted to the Wheatland Hospital on April 8, 2018, suffering from acute kidney and liver failure. He was transferred to Anschultz Hospital in Denver, Colorado and then to Porter Adventist Hospital where he passed eleven days later. He is survived by his wife Sarah, their children Judah, Asher, Hannah, Levi, Emily, Benjamin and Ella, his brothers Jared and Nathan Adamo and his parents Thea and Christopher Adamo.

Services were held at the First Christian Church in Wheatland on April 30, 2019 and his ashes are scattered in the ocean at The Knob in Woods Hole, MA where he proposed to Sarah.
